The Contest in Kansas.

We say "contest"—although that is not a fitting word, for there is no contest—more properly, the campaign in Kansas is too one-sided to make it interesting. Notwithstanding the brag and blus ter of the Greeley party, their cause is simply hopeless. In two or three Counties, and only that many, they will reduce the Republican majority slightly. In the balance of the Counties, the Republican majorities will be larger than us-ual. Democrats, by the hundreds, are signifying their determination to vote for Grant. In most of the Counties, these men far outnumber the Republicans who will vote for Greeley. The only difference is, the Republicans who intend to vote for Greeley, feel it to be their duty to make all the noise possible; while the Democrats who have made up their minds to vote for Grant, are pursuing their way quietly, but will make themselves felt no less surely at the ballot-box.

The Liberals are making the burden of the fight mainly upon the Governorship, with the help of two or three disappointed and malicious Republi-cans. Notwithstanding all their bousting, it is very evident that they have no hope of carrying Kansas for their ticket, but think there may be a chance to elect their Governor, by means of the concentrated and bitter fight upon that office. In this they are wasting their time. The animus of the assaults upon Osborn is too evident to be mistaken, and is only strengthening him. So far from defeating him, their warfare promises to run him ahead of the ticket. If the Liberals expect to run Walker ahead of his ticket on the ground of his extraordinary gentility and hopesty, they will be wofully disappointed. The returns will show that he stands on about the same footing as any other Democratic-Liberal-Sorch of them will be miserably beaten.

In short, Kansas will elect an almost unani mous Republican Legislature, Republican Presidential Electors, Republican Congressmen, and the entire Republican State ticket-and she will not merely elect them, but will do it by an overwhelming, crushing majority. Any person who claims to the contrary, is either wild or insin-

A CONFLICT.-We this week publish a call, signed by four of the members of the Republican Committee of the First District, annuouncing tha the Delegates of that District to the County Convention will nominate a candidate for Representative on the same day, at Troy. BUFFALO LAND .- We are in receipt of this new and most agreeable volume of over 500 pages from the press of E. Hannaford & Co., (Publishers of FIRST-CLASS Subscription Books, Cincinnati and Chicago.) It describes the wealth and wonders, the mys-teries and marvels of the boundless West—that wild region so much talked about, yet so fittle od, whose growth and development seem like a tale of Eastern magic. It is superbly illusnal and striking engravings, from actual photographs and designs by Prof. Henry Worrall, and executed (the enterprising publishers assure us) at a total cest of over $2,000.

In a short review like this, it is, of course, im possible to convey a perfect idea of this admirable work. Our friend, J. M. Steele, of Wichita, write is to correct an item which we recently published, that the Pennsylvania Bucktail Regiment are all for Greeley. He says that he is warranted in saying that fully ninety-nine out of every hundred of them are for Grant, and they should not be subjected to the slander of being accused of joining the rebels. We found the item in a Gree ley paper. We feel ashamed for having made such a statement upon such authority; but had we known that the Bucktail regiment was the one with which friend Steel rallied we should not have credited the story upon any authority.

The Liberals are not exactly barme either. The Girard Press repudiates Laughlin one of their candidates for Congress, and prints the ticket thus:

North American gives this brief history of the matter:

"In the course of the Tammany conflict it was shown that Horace Greeley, although a life-long newspaper writer and public lecturer against the use of tobacco, was a partner of Tweed in a tobacco mannfacturing company. Other awkward disclosures were made, but this will suffice as a specimen. Those who are fond of applying to Mr. Greeley the epithet 'honest' should reflect upon this matter. When the new charter for New York city was pending in the Legislature some years ago, the Tammany ring having the control of both Houses, the Union League Club of New York, well aware of Greeley's councertion with the Ring, induced him to go to Albany and ask certain modifications of the bill. Greeley went, assented to the bill as it stood, sold out the League, and patched up a private bargain on his own account for a nomination [for Greeley,] which he did not get."

CANDIDATES.—There never was a campaign before in which there were so many Presidential candidates in the field as now. The nominations for President and Vice President are as follows: Republican—Ulysses S. Grant and Henry Wilscratic-Liberal-Horace Greeley and B. Gratz Brown.

Gratz Brown.

Straight-Democratic—Charles O'Conor and John Quincy Adams.

and J. L. Barlow.

Woman's Rights—Victoria Woodhull and Fred.

UNABLE TO CONDUCT BUSINESS.—The Rev. Edward Everett Hale calls attention in an article in the Old and New, to the fact, mentioned by Parton, Mr. Greeley's enthusiastic biographer, that the reason of the failure of Mr. Greeley's newspaper, the New Forker, was his constitutional and incurable inability to conduct business.

THE PLAC OF DISTRESS.

There are no doubt Liberals and Democrata enough in the United States to elect Mr. Greeley President in November. Whether they will do it or not is another question, the answer to which depends almost as much upon the manner in which they conduct the campaign as upon their numerical strength. It is certain that the Liberals and Conservatives for instance have a large majority in North Carolina; but their opponents their whole strength to bear so effectively that if they could not secure a genuine victory they at least saved themselves from rout. Elsewhere the preparations of the Administration party have been equally thorough, and they have the great advantage of controlling all the patronage and other influence of the government. On our side too much trust has been placed upon the "popular uprising" and "enthusiasm" for Gree ley, and the "generous impulse" for peace and fraternity, and "revolt" against rings and corruption; and our friends seem to imagine that they can sit still and let the Liberal movement sweep the country. They must understand that the administration is not going to be changed by an earthquake. They must work for success. It is in politics as it is in war; the battle is not always to the þiggest army, but rather to the best drilled. Our campaign is to be short and sharp, and we are likely to be beaten unless we do more than we are doing now to get our men into the field and secure recruits from among the wavering and dissatisfied. We say, then, to the friends of the Laberal cause:

1. Don't maste all your strength on parades.

cause:

1. Don't waste all your strength on parades. Banners, bonfires, caunon and torchlight processions are very well in their way, but they don't make voters. They only amuse the men who would vote for your candidate anyhow.

2. Don't rely too much spon public meetings. They are one-sided affairs, which neither develop your own strength nor influence the followers of the opposite party.

voters read them. They are used for kindling and shaving paper. Besides, the Grant party has abused the system to such an extent that a man and shaving page.

abused the system to such an extent that a man distrusts whatever comes to him in that shape.

4. Don't waste your money on Campaign Chouder Clabs, and other frands. This is a great season for impecunious political suckers. Be as civil as you please, but show them the door.

5. Organize the party thoroughly by districts, in every city, village and township of the United States. If there is no local organization where you live, get together a few of your neighbors and form one.

6. As soon as a club is formed appoint active can-and form one.

6. As soon as a club is formed appoint active canrassers to risit every house. Thus every man who believes in the principles of our party can be enroll.d., and the wants of every district can be ascertained.

7. Have District meetings at regular times, so that the spirit and interect of the members may be sustained by association. Never mind gatherings for buncombe, but meet often for business. Put your clubs into communication with the County or State associations, and report to headquarters your needs, your progress and your strength.

8. Do these things at once. Begin your local clubs to-day. The opposite party is active and well disciplined, and we are not. We have a greal deal of lost time to make up, and only a little while to doit in. With energentic and well directed effort, our victory in November is certain; but the prize will be snatched from our hands if we do not rouse ourselves in season.—

Clay is spared exposure only because the details of the debaucheries and licentiousness by which he disgraced the country he was representing at St. Petersburg are so offensive that no decent journal could venture to publish them. He was recalled from Russia because his conduct had become intolerable; therefore he supports Greeley and reform. We shall pext have Consul General Butler taking the stump for the liberal Indiana.—The Indianapolis Journal gives it as its opinion that Greeley would have polled ten thousand more votes in Indiana a week after the Baltimore Convention than he would to-day. People in that State are everywhere enthusiastic in support of the Republican ticket, and now that the harvest is over they will take hold of the work of the campaign in carnet. Every day's discussion throws Greeley and his unboly alliance with the old Tammany thieves and unrepented rebels into unfavorable light, and every sober second thought demonstrates the fitness and propriety of re-electing Gen. SCHURZ AND GRANT.

Editors Louisville Commercial:

A short time after the battle of Missionary Ridge, as the writer of this happened to be on the road leading through Lookout Valley, from Chattanooga to Bridgeport, Ala., he saw a Colonel mounted on a prancing charger, followed at a respectable distance by staff officers and innumerable orderlies, the Colonel and his staff plumed and bedecked with all the paraphernalia incident to the "pomp and circumstance" of war. A General was camped on the side of the road. His staff officers, as well as himself, were covered with gold lace, fancy tassels hanging from boot tops, &c. Asking a staff officer near by whose headquarters, he answered in a whisper that it was Gen. Carl Schurz's. As we proceeded, our minds filled with awe at the display made by the parties mentioned, we passed by a by whose headquarters, he answered in a whisper that it was Gen. Carl Schurz's. As we proceeded, our minds filled with awe at the display made by the parties mentioned, we passed by a small man (mounted), with a plain hat, ordinary military great-coat, with cape, and unattended by any one. Glancing at him, we were forcibly struck by his thoughtful appearance. After he had passed, our friend remarked: "There goes your boss." "What boss?" we inquired. "Why, Gen. Grant, of course." We could not believe that the plain, modest, unassuming man who had just passed us was the Commander-in-Chief of the great armies of the United States. What a contrast. The Colonel making the greatest display imaginable, creating the hurra of the soldiers as he rode along, when our Commander-in-Chief, unattended, avoiding all desplay, passed quietly along on his way eastward to gloriously crown our victorious banners with fresh and brighter laurels. Years after we happened to be on a visit to Philadelphia, Pa. We were present by invitation at the maguificent club house of the Union League. When we arrived there we were informed that Gen. Grant and Rear Admiral Farragut, and other officers, were in the hanquet room. Learning this fact, we strolled through the parlors until the distinguished parties came out, when we were again brought in the presence of the same plain, unassuming man that we had met before in "Lookont Valley," and noted how aunoyed he seemed at the attention shown him there.

We had the distinguished honor of serving four years and a half in the Union army, starting from "Joe Holt" and returning after the march through the Carolinas and the close of the war. We are done fighting with the aword, but if this with the pen, we cheerfully give it, hoping that it will, in a small way, tend to refute the slanderous lies told against a great General, a true soldier, and an honest, faithful, upright President, who depends on his acts and deeds alone to speak in thunder tones of his worth rather than descend to "swinging around the circle" or place himself

Several of our cotemporaries affect unusual wrath at the Democrat's comments on the booziness of B. Gratz, and have gone to work with a zealous determination to make out a worse case of inebriation against Grant than we have been able to make out against Brown. It appears that the Republican candidate has been for many years a victim of intemperance. He was drunk at Fort Donelson, or he would not have made an insolent demand upon Buckner for an unconditional surrender of that fortress. He was drunk tional surrender of that fortress. He was drunk tional surrender of that fortress. He was drunk at Shiloh, or he would have known that his army was whipped on that memorable Sunday evening, and would have quietly retired into the Tennessee River, instead of renewing the battle next day. He was drunk at Vicksburg; for no sober man would have dreamed of running the batteries, as he did, and taking such desperate chances. He was drunk when he started Sherman on a fool's errand to the sea, in violation of all the known rules and arts of war. He was drunk when he drove Lee behind his breastworks at Richmond; and he wound up the war, in a fit drink when he drove Lee behind his breastworks at Richmond; and he wound up the war, in a fit of delirium tremeus, under that historic apple tree at Appomattox. This ended his military dissipation, we believe; but there were still in reserve for him sectral important civic sprees. The first of these was, when he wouldn't let Andy Lohnon get possession of the War Office for The first of these was, when he wouldn't let Andy Johnson get possession of the War Office for the patriotic purpose of suppressing Congress. He must have taken at least five fingers of Cognac before he made his inaugural speech, insisting on the preservation of the national credit, and the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment. Whenever, since inauguration, the Ku-Klux, under the advice of Frank and the Democratic party, have undertaken to make war upon the loyal men of the South, General Grant has always put himself into a beastly state of intoxication and suppressed them. When Carl Schurz has wrongly at, for the good of the gers to kill after we have won our glorious trumph in November.

8. Promise every doubting Republicans a Post-office. This plan has been very effective in strengthening the Liberal cause thus far. There may not be Post-offices enough to go round, but that will not be determined until after the election.—St. Louis Democrat.

Cot. S. A. Conn.—The Lawrence Journal gives the following sketch of Col. S. A. Cobb, one of the Republican candidates for Congress from this State:

"This gentleman, who was yesterday nominated as the third candidate on the Republican field at home in the Greeley party. I donbt it. It is no place for such men. They cannot feel at home in the Greeley camp? I donbt it. It is no place for such men. They cannot feel at home in the Greeley camp? I donbt it. It is no place for such men. They cannot feel at home in the Greeley party fait with such surroundings as attend them. To feel at home there requires, first, a surrender of the Republican. The man that calls himself such has grown weary in well doing and has stopped short in his work before it is done. Men may try to reason themselves into the belief that it is not true, but it won't do. The fact is no patent to every candid mind that the strength of the Greeley party how, and will dictate its policy,

A GREELEY "REFORMER."—Warmoth, the Greelevite carpet-bag Governor of Louisiana—one of the head men of these who promise, with the help of New York Tammany, to "purify the Government"—has given a good illustration of what he knows about honest administration during his official career. Witness the following statement in the New Orleans Picayane, (which supports Greeley and Brown:)

"The State indebtness has been increased since the reim of Gov. H. C. Warmoth in annurated EDUCATION.—In the Missouri State Democratic Convention which was held a few weeks ago, Hon. Albert Todd offered the following resolution. It was received with such bitter opposition that the mover withdrew it. In the Republican State Convention of Missouri, the following week, the same resolution was offered, and unanimously adopted, with the substitution of the word "Republicans" for "Democrata" Republicans believe in and Democrata distrust popular education. Subjoined is the resolution:

"That universal suffrage demands universal aducation; that, as Republicans, believing that intelligence and virtue are the pillars of our government, we advocate the necessity of a common school education for every child in the

CLASPING HANDS—Among the ardent supporters of "Honest Horris" and reform are the following-named parties, who will be remembered with lively feelings by many Union soldiers who spent some time in the South during the rebellion. It may be added that these parties all want to shake hands across the chasm:

General John H. Winder, Richmond, Va., 1861 to 1865.

Lieutenant Colonel J. F. Iverson, Florence, S.
C., 1884 and 1865.

Lieutenant Colonel R. C. Smith, Danville, Va., 1861 and 1865.

Anything to beat Grant. They all yell in. The SOUTH CAROLINA.—The political situation in South Carolina is described by a correspon-dent as follows: "I do not believe there are two hundred black men in the State who will vote for Mr. Greeley, but the late rebels are for him to a man. South Carolina will give twenty-five thou sand majority for Grant."
